U'n'I '61

University High School
Urbana, Illinois
Volume 41

This is ours--
the shadows of our year
the silhouette of past time glad sad
good bad
A memory set in black and white.

DEDICATION

A Mademoiselle Pauline Changnon,

Qui s'est montrée pour nous non seulement un professeur de français, mais une personnalité une tradition

une amie

Les membres de la classe de 1961 dédient ce livre avec reconnaissance.

Miss Pauline Changnon.

To you who have been more than a teacher of French-- an individual a tradition
a friend--
We, the class of 1961, gratefully dedicate this book.

From a considerable distance, the silhouette of a large grey stone building may be seen on the North Campus of the University of Illinois. A picture taken thirty years ago shows the same silhouette, although a large tree near the west entrance is no longer to be seen.

The unchanging external appearance of the school is deceptive, however, because the school as an institution has been transformed, doubling in total size within the last few years. While it has long served admirably as a high school and as a center for certain activities such as practice teaching which are part of the work of the University, the school has now developed into a major experimental center. Its present functions, in which providing secondary education to its students remains central, now include functions which are part of the research and service functions of the University.

To the members of the Class of 1961, who entered the school at the time when important changes were gathering momentum, we wish to thank you for your assistance in our experimental ventures, and we wish you well in your future careers. We hope your interest in our programs and projects will remain strong, and you will be willing to help us as needed in follow-up studies. Your experiences in the past and in the future will continue to be of great interest to us.

SENIORS

The Seniors

Beginning (end)
And the days breathe fiery though redbirds no more revel in a leafed elm
As one by one they take their leave
And we are come to be the seniors.

Mooney's
The triumvirate meets Amid an aire of "Peter Gunn"
voices counterpoint with muffled drummings
a cash drawer slams shut Mingled odours of Pall Mall, sweat and grease tang Smoke swirls up
clouds the recessed lantern

Cityroom
Staff appear Imaginings of printers' ink stir waking typewriters in silent garb (oily, glistening machines)
From secret darkened crypts
effuse pink-scented triumphs

With a noisome chatter
they call forth copy, the populace
Then memories cease; slide back
To darkness and the night.
30

Party
Candle-flicked shadow:
cast softly onto the lovers' musk'd hair;
flung lightly into the burnished blackness encircle white and ghost-faced ones (one-eyes wild) Tallow-smell beclouds a mood
the snap of cards; a hinted melody
It is midnight.

End (beginning)
Cool zephyrs blow about us
and all clings fast in pray'r and parchment
As one by one we take our leave
And they are come to be the seniors.

CLASS WILL

I, Carol Bassie, leave the yearbooks on time for once.
I, Dan Bates, leave Mr. McCrimmon with a wastebasket full of used chess sets.
I, Eleanor Brookens, leave my tremendous interest in G.A.A. and the Athletic Department to Jane Mutti.
I, Dick Caughron, leave without having used my reclining seats.
I, John Chapman, leave my list of parking places to Bob Shipley.
I, Charles Derber, leave Miss Leppert's office for good--I've got my "5" now.
I, John Downs, leave my car to the city dump for the second time.
I, George Frampton, leave my National Merit scores to Ken Nordseick.
I, Jean Gammill, leave my right fender to the semi-driver, the front bumper to the little old lady, and the taillight to the tree in Shakamak.
I, Mike Goldwasser, leave my abundance of verbal ingenuity to Allan Eckel.
I, Steve Hall, leave blindfolds to all female well-wishers.
I, Bruce Hicks, leave all other digital computers obsolete--they can compute "π" to only 2,371 decimal places.
I, Karen Hinshaw, leave my co-ordination and conservatism behind the wheel to Coach Carlier.
I, Judy Holshouser, leave my winking bedroom blue eyes to Mara Stolurow.
I, Bill Hull, leave my respect and admiration for teachers to Kathy Kolb.
I, Ann Hulsizer, leave fifty pounds of coffee to Mooney's.
I, Carol Hunt, leave to Hunt for a Smith at college (her horse lost a shoe).
Charles Johnson leaves, and flowers, and trees, and bugs, and armadillos studies.
Steve Kellogg leaves, but he'll be back to take next year's Tri-High queen to the dance.
I, John Kelly, leave my out-going personality to Adrian Wadsworth.
I, Tommy Kelso, leave my repertoire of effective lines and my little black book to Chester Zych.
I, John Kirby, leave my culture, tact, singing ability, and aggressiveness to Mr. Pease.
I, Pam Koehler, leave my madrigal outfit to Doug Brown.
I, Ed Lathrope, leave my pipe to Betsy Kirby.
I, Sandy McCrimmon, leave my tons of influence around Uni to Herman Klemick.
I, Rod Millican, leave my knowledge of cars to Mr. Frillman.
I, Norma Parker, leave my Republicanism to Dennis Murphy.
I, Nick Peters, leave my brief case to Steve Keyes.
I, Kathie Rawcliffe, leave a baby rattle to the Uni High boys.
I, Clark Robinson, leave.
I, Phil Ross, leave to search the wide world over for a 1909 SVDB penny.
I, Priscilla Sherwin, leave my assorted collections of nicotine and tars to Bill Hooper.
I, Anne Shoemaker, leave my "I'm available" sweat shirt to Ramin Khadem.
I, Steve Singer, leave a personality course to the Uni High girls.
I, Jane Smalley, leave my white mice in the Lost and Found.
I, Allen Smith, leave my drum to Bastian Kruidenier.
I, April Smith, leave Mr. Drew as a permanent fixture in the Illini Union Tavern.
I, Bruce Smith, leave for the South Seas to carry on with YCCI--this time it's Young Corrupters of the Coral Islands.
I, Jane Snyder, leave my Imperial to Miss Cottrell.
I, Jiffy Starr, leave the Debate Club to Kim Dammers.
I, John Steinbeck, leave my expressive face to Charlie Dobbins.
I, Dave Suzuki, L.S.M.F.T.--leave, smoking my fuming tobacco.
I, Mark Swenson, leave my formula for super-explosive iodine crystals to Ken Stratton.
I, Ellie Viens, leave my holey tennis shoes to Nancy Roberts.
I, George Wadsworth, leave my pecuniary generosity to finance committee.
I, Gwen Weise, leave Uni a little less Weise.
I, Jim Weissman, leave my cow bell to Miss Leppert.
I, Ed Wetmore, leave my ability in asking rhetorical questions to Jim Peck.
I, Fadia Yasin, leave my basketball talent to Cindy Elsesser.
I, Marynel Young, leave my punctual attendance at basketball games to George Day.

Jim Weissman is a librarian.
Ed Wetmore is assistant manager of Charles Atlas, Inc.
Fadia Yasin is writing advice to the love-lorn in the Ladies Home Journal.
Marynel Young is a fat lady wrestler.

CLASS HISTORY

Remember the sub class of '56-'57? Tall girls, short pudgy boys . . . how Miss Keenan's study hall terminated in Mr. Brown's office . . . the gorgeous dinner party the girls gave for the boys--stringy carrots, soggy potato chips, burnt buns and watered-down barbequed beef . . . the wild orgies known as sub-parties--from 7:00 P.M. to 9:00 P.M. in the North Attic . . . the club formed by the girls, the Hiding Hermits . . . contracts signed in blood during study hall . . . eating lunch in Bidwell's (math class, that is) . . . dear Miss Snyder and her solutions to the girls' love problems . . . Mr. A's T.V. programs produced four budding actors and actresses from shy little subs.

And then came frosh year. Two groups: sub and non-sub . . . remember general science class? Holding hands in the romantic atmosphere of a lecture on limestone formation . . . the science field trip to Chicago . . . the cop and the Prudential Building . . . the kids that didn't go back on the train (they stayed in Chicago for a church conference?) . . . cards and checkers on the way up, something else on the way back . . . John Chapman's New Year's Eve party . . . Mr. Martin, blondes, and his lumberjack story.

Progress moves on--sophomore year . . . a great increase in class and school spirit . . . Mr. Grissom's dictatorial English class . . . the best Spring Fling this school has ever had--fountain, pond, goldfish, turtles, and all . . . one turtle was lost in the boys' locker room and had to be flooded out . . . drivers' licenses began to appear and change the whole attitude of the class toward social life . . . our first big class picnic and that fun (?) hayrack ride that messed everybody up . . . we began to spark up the athletic department, too, and start the swing up.

Junior year . . . Miss Leppert's U.S. history class . . . we found out what it's like to really work . . . our term paper due and an amazing number of seniors absent in the morning . . . the field trip to Standard Oil and two angry underage students left behind . . . limited attendance at the Star Dance due to a strange mis-understanding . . . athletics pulled up a little bit higher . . . Mrs. Riva's enlightening English class with some pretty interesting discussions . . . the steady-craze . . . the Big Show and Teen Beat . . . National Merits and other numerous tests of our intellectual ability . . . more drivers' licenses now terrorizing the town, little old ladies and all . . . more parties and better . . . our first prom, quite an experience . . . another picnic, also a blast.

Senior year at last . . . frightening but fun . . . a really terrific crosscountry and basketball season . . . our genius uncovered in National Merit exams and College Boards . . . college physics first semester . . . many college applications to struggle over . . . sleeping during English . . . first and second entertaining hours in the lounge . . . our wild plans for a co-educational camping trip (chaperoned of course) in the Indiana Sand Dunes . . . our notorious parties that really weren't THAT bad . . . and the colleges finally reply.

Has it been so long?

UNDERCLASSMEN

The Halls

7:00
A glimmer--near a promise--lurks light
In the Spring mists dust motes float lazy
frame in latticed pencils the bookbearers
Through the open doorways tree--smell drifts and mingles
With the fresh floor wax
(rising from buffed whorls)
From down and away
come soft metal clicks--student sounds.

12:00
The bell rings
calls to being a picture fading from yellowed-gray
to the center of light
The milling mass--white bloused
hold to syruped paper cups;
bear the scent of Doublemint
and orange peels;
recoil from the glassed panels into the hub, the centroid between green locker doors.

3:00
The bell rings;
These people of the halls:
Resolve--pulsate with organic rumble
From the music box in the corner insignificance; yet a bond, a universe.

6:00
Footmarks in the pap'ry dust
Where empty echoes flit
On splayed remnants of the day a darkened figure hunches low
--brilliant in the spot-of-light
crouching in a scent of old memories.
Through a doorway
varicolored florescents reflect casting garrish arabesques on scratches in the tiled flooring.

ACTIVITIES

Dance (a chronicle)

Howdy.
Starkness and sterility:
two speakers vault the steely lattice
jumble light and counterpoint-- Openness and rainly spatter.
Stopping brief at Christmastime
(the past calls strong)
the mem'ry day--or nearly.
Crepe-paper'd masques:
Crinkly gelatins and tape
    anchor words of wordly wise
Fail to hide the numbered wall,
    the basket hoop
    the parochial odour;
Through the acoustic labyrinth
a combo sighs.
A fantasy of swirling skirts
and a dark night,
Such was our last prom.

Campaign
Hope:
A progression; a chromatic
rises out from the dark ways exhalts the marching-forward
A lengthened spring; the tight'ning screw quivers.
Remnant:
A few soiled buttons, the great debate,
the smoke from sixty million ballots.

Tradition
A school-year is tradition-- cycles cannot be otherwise.
But somehow each is a bit changed, blended, rather than merged with all before

Carnival is gone.

Drama
The green lampcover--like the cardshark's eyeshade
feigns darkness
On yellow-brown'd tabletops dust: a gauze scrim, crystal chim'd lays heavy on the canvas past mirrors ghosts, powder-faced script-in-hand (alcohol and old greasepaint) along about the curtain time.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Student Council, sponsored by Miss Ella Leppert, undertook a wide range of activities this year, from replacing the old and worn American flags to sponsoring a fall dance in place of the Carnival. Besides maintaining and reviewing the functions of its standing committees, Council set up a system whereby its representatives reported to their classes once a week during English sessions. The organizations purchased Uni High sweatshirts and sold them to students. Working with the Human Relations Commission, Council sent two representatives to the Human Relations Board. Council members prepared a code for common courtesies and appointed a committee to investigate the goals of University High. The group worked throughout the year to foster harmonious relations between the faculty and the students as well as to provide leadership training for all members of the student body.

U 'N I

The yearbook staff, chosen in the spring of last year, struggled all year to meet deadlines. Although sometimes seemingly disorganized, the enlarged staff gave valuable experience to future editors and publishers. Their book, longer than in the past, was financed by the student activity fund rather than by advertising.

GARGOYLE

As Gargoyle's new sponsor, Mr. Daniel Lindley guided the school newspaper through many changes and improvements during the year. The greatest innovation was the reorganization and enlargement of the staff, which resulted in more interesting and better written articles. Gargoyle became the center of a school controversy, as Student Council debated whether or not the paper should be under their auspices.

UNIQUE

Unique is Uni's creative writing group. Its main purpose this year was to give the members a chance to write original pieces and to hear constructive criticisms of their work, rather than to publish a magazine. To encourage others, Mr. Zahner, Unique's sponsor, read his own poetry and invited evaluations and suggestions. The club worked on exercises in psychological motivation and produced many stories of imagination and fantasy.

DEBATE AND SPEECH

Debate Club, sponsored by Miss Patricia Carroll, completed its second year as an organized activity at Uni. The club's main project this year was to investigate and practice debating the topic, Resolved: that the United Nations should be significantly strengthened. The members entered competition on this topic with several area high schools and with teams in the spring debate meet. During the second semester, Debate Club heard members of the University speech department lecture on various aspects of debate.

Several students who were interested in individual rather than team speaking attended the Debate Club meetings to practice and to obtain advice for the speech contests held in the spring.

SCIENCE CLUB

Science Club, sponsored by Miss Frances Cottrell, directed its activities toward encouraging student interest in science and promoting individual research. The club heard lecturers from the University of Illinois as well as reports by their own members. This year Science Club organized a showcase on the third floor to display their collections and minutes of their meetings. During the second semester the club took a field trip to the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago.

TERRAPIN

Terrapin, Uni High's synchronized swimming club, was directed by Mrs. Van Beaumont this year. The members, divided into three groups, Senior Terrapin, Junior Terrapin, and Tadpoles, met for three hours every Saturday to improve their swimming technique and to rehearse for the annual water show. This year the Terrapin Show, highlighting San Francisco, consisted of nine acts planned by Senior Terrapin.

G. A. A.

G.A.A. activities this year included soccer, basketball, volleyball, softball, two initiations, a picnic in the fall, and the annual track meet in the spring. In January the club sponsored a basketball tournament between the girls of the five classes, and followed this a few weeks later by a volleyball tournament. The winning team of the volleyball tournament played the women faculty in an assembly.

ORCHESIS

Uni High's modern dance group, sponsored by Mrs. Mira Rodwan, met on Monday afternoons to learn technique and on Saturday mornings to study composition. Visiting dancers presented lectures and demonstrations for the organization. Each month Orchesis elected one member to attend the officers' board meetings and to act as a general representative of the whole group. As a culmination of the year's work, the annual concert was held in the spring.

FENCING

Another of Uni's new activities this year was Fencing Club. Directed by Coach Keller, the club entered many Amateur Fencers' League meets. These meets held every Saturday in the Men's Old Gym, gave the members a chance to fence with students from the University of Illinois. The club held regular practice twice a week to prepare for the state championship competition held in the spring.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

After four years of extinction, Photography Club has been revived by a group of interested students under the guidance of Mr. Lindley and Mr. Pease. After organizing the club in the second semester, the members hoped to establish a constitution, be officially recognized by Student Council so that funds will be available for next year's group, sponsor a photography display to arouse school-wide interest, and have several meetings featuring speakers on different aspects of photography.

The Photography Club's future looks bright. Along with general improvements of the third floor hall, a darkroom is planned for a corner of the future APS laboratory. Also, Mr. Lindley made plans to offer a non-credit course in photography in which students will select their own projects and pay for necessary materials.

MIXED

Miss Marilyn Sherman, a graduate of the University of Illinois, came to Uni this year from Sullivan High School to instruct and direct Uni's largest singing group, Mixed Chorus. In December the chorus performed in a Christmas Concert and in the Christmas assembly. Later they sang in a spring program and provided music for baccalaureate. Some of the Mixed Chorus members participated in the All-State Chorus and in the County Music Festival.

GIRLS' CHORUS

Girls' Chorus gave the sub, freshman, and sophomore girls a chance to further their singing talents. The group met every Tuesday and Thursday to practice their three-part music under the direction of Miss Sherman. During the year they performed at the Christmas Concert and at various other concerts.

MADRIGALS

Under the direction of Miss Marilyn Sherman, Uni's Madrigal singers often traveled more than fifty miles to sing in sixteenth century atmosphere of tailcoats, ruffles, and candle light for many area organizations. Nearly sixty Madrigal alumni met for the annual reunion held during the Christmas holidays. The group planned a field trip to be taken in June.

Jane Snyder, first violin; Dennis Murphy, second violin; Pam Koehler, violoncello; Toby Goodman, viola.

STRING QUARTET

During the past three years Uni High's string quartet has performed for local churches, women's clubs, and school assemblies, and has won first ratings in both district and state music contests. Their instructor this year was Mr. James Pescor of the University of Illinois Symphony Orchestra.

H.M.S. PINAFORE
(or The Lass That Loved a Sailor)

Captain Corcoran has arranged a marriage between his daughter, Josephine, and Sir Joseph Porter, first Lord of the Admiralty. But Josephine, loved by Seaman Ralph Rackstraw, is torn between obligation to her rank and the inclination of her heart. Meanwhile, the Captain is supressing his affection for Little Buttercup, a bumboat woman. A plot between Josephine and Ralph to elope is discovered by the maiden's horrified father. But the situation is saved when Buttercup announces that she had switched the Captain and Ralph as babes. Their position reversed, each may marry his true love, while Sir Joseph marries his cousin Hebe.

The operetta cast, chosen in January, rehearsed extensively to co-ordinate dances and songs. "Flags, and guns, and pennants dipping," THE H.M.S. PINAFORE sailed "over the deep blue sea" in outstanding performances March 24 and 25.

ORCHESTRA

The orchestra met seventh hour every Monday and Friday under the direction of Mr. Neice. During the Christmas holidays some of the orchestra members played in the All-State Band. Several musicians entered solos and duets in the district and state music contests held in March.

CROSS COUNTRY

Uni High's 1960 cross country squad went far beyond even the most optimistic pre-season expectations and swept all six of its regular season meets to become the most successful team in Uni sports history. As a fitting climax to its triumphant season, the Buckeyes entered the important District Meet and outdistanced eight of the twelve squads competing.

Most important in achieving the six-meet sweep was the combined effort of all the squad members; but the outstanding performance of certain individuals added even more to the team effort and achievement. Kim Dammers, a junior and captain-elect for 1961, blazed a new individual mark into the Uni High record book as he covered the 1.9 mile University South Farms course in 10:11, eight seconds under the previous record. Captain and Most Valuable Runner for this season, Steve Hall, also dipped under the previous individual mark and together with Dammers consistently sparked the Uni effort. Coach Keller awarded major letters to six seniors and to Kim Dammers and Dave Jordan.

CHEERLEADERS

VARSITY--Kitty Gore, Marynel Young, Jean Gammill, Judy Holshouser.

The cheerleaders in 1960-61 were in a large part responsible for the unusually spirited, partisan, and vocal crowds which cheered the Buckeye teams on to success throughout the basketball season.

The eight girls elected sponsored pep rallies and assemblies to promote spirit before the game. They were especially successful in efforts to draw larger crowds to the games. The new "pep club" under the supervision of the cheerleaders added strength and unity to the Buckeye cheers.

The 1960-61 Uni basketball squad earned a record which stands by itself in Uni basketball history over the last fifteen years. The Buckeyes won eleven games this season, the highest total since 1944-45. Although the Bucks finished one game short of a winning season, they earned several other distinctions which added to their success.

During the middle of the season, when the Bucks were at a peak, the squad ripped off four straight victories--successively defeating East Lynn, Homer, Fisher, and Homer again. No other Buckeye team in the past decade achieved a string of four victories. In the East Lynn contest, the Bucks smothered their opponents by a thirty-point margin of 77-47, the second highest score made by any Uni team in the last decade. Uni also won its first tournament game in four years when it rapped Homer by a score of 56-40 in the Champaign County Tournament.

The Buck's first victory was over Oakwood after an initial setback in the Wapella contest. Except for the three defeats suffered at the very tail-end of their schedule, the Buckeyes never lost more than two games in a row. Surprisingly, Uni never lost on its opponent's home floor until its 19th game at Kansas; on the other hand, it won only four games on its own home floor.

Much of Uni's success must be attributed to its coach, Bob Carlier. He developed a series of offensive patterns which gave the Bucks a varied and powerful attack. He worked individually with many of the boys and spent hours compiling statistics on each of Uni's foes.

Coach Carlier used a type of platoon system this year, substituting entire teams and giving all twelve boys opportunities to see considerable action. His usual starting combination was 6'5" Doug Brown at center, John Chapman at one forward, George Frampton or Steve Kellogg at the other forward, John Kirby at one guard, and Charles Derber or Steve Hall at the other. Although its spirit of team cooperation was probably the team's chief asset, three boys did most of the scoring and rebounding. Captain John Kirby was the individual stand-out as he racked up the highest number of points, the highest individual total of 26 in one game, and the highest field goal percentage. Chapman and Brown, along with Kirby, led Uni rebounding, and were second and third respectively in point production.

JUNIOR VARSITY

Uni High's Junior Varsity basketball team ended its 1960-61 season with a 5-12 mark. The "young Bucks", coached by Roy Keller for the third successive season, lost many of their games on "squeaker scores" of one, two, or three points.

In spite of the team's won-lost record, Uni High had a Junior Varsity which should be a threat to others as a Varsity team in the 1961-62 season.

SUB TEAM

Uni High's Subfreshman basketball team was undefeated this season. The Subs were able to accomplish this surprising record because they did not compete in any interscholastic games this year, but staged two intra-squad competitions instead. Under the direction of coach Jim Frillman, the Subs learned the fundamentals of competitive basketball and displayed promise for future Uni teams in their two scrimmages.

U-CLUB

The U-Club in 1960-61 represented a group of athletes who combined to give University High its most successful sports record in well over a decade. The seventeen club members elected Steve Hall as President, John Downs as Vice-President, and George Wadsworth as Secretary-Treasurer.

As in former years, the major function of U-Club was to sponsor the annual U-Club Dance, held this year on January 14. The Club also ushered at school assemblies and adopted the official convention of wearing letter sweaters on Fridays.

BASEBALL

Uni High jumped into a new realm of athletics in the fall of 1960. For the first time in the history of the school, baseball became part of the Uni athletic program.

The baseball team, under the direction of coach Roy Keller, achieved a respectable status by the end of the year due to its industriousness and spirit of co-operation.

The "Baseball Buckeyes" played two games this year, both with Ogden. The first game saw the Buckeyes being beaten at will by an experienced Ogden team. In the second game, however, the Bucks were edged in a tight game by a sole run.

Coach Keller is optimistic about the future of baseball at Uni and is hopeful of scheduling more games next year.

TRACK

The 1961 University High track squad should repeat the successes that the cross country and basketball squads of this year have enjoyed. With a sizeable group of lettermen returning from last year's squad --including a number of members of the undefeated cros-country team--the Buckeyes have a solid nucleus around which to build a successful squad.

Uni should be especially strong in the distances where Captain Charles Derber, Kim Dammers, George Wadsworth, Dick Caughron, John Chapman, and Mark Swenson have all demonstrated speed and endurance. Other strong members of the team include Steve Hall in the hurdles, Bruce Smith, John Downs, and Bob Jordan in the sprints and middle distances, Sandy McCrimmon, Steve Kellogg, and John Steinbeck in the weights, and John Kirby in the high-jump.
